

2005 Vodafone Victorian Premier League

Media Guide

Introduction

The Football Federation Victoria (FFV) is pleased to announce that the 2005 naming rights sponsor for the Premier League is Vodafone.

The new partnership promises to expand the game of football like never before and will provide a season of huge rewards.

The FFV is thrilled to be in partnership with Vodafone and for them to take on the naming rights of the 2005 Premier League.

As football continues to grow, we eagerly await what is in store for 2005. Nationally we will see the Hyundai A-League take form and the National team make their move on the World Cup qualifiers.

For Victorians, the Premier League is the pinnacle of our domestic game and this year we welcome South Melbourne, Melbourne Knights, Heidelberg United and the Sunshine Georgies to the 2005 Vodafone Premier League.

Altona Magic

Altona Magic continued its revival as a Premier League power in 2004 and surprised many by finishing runners up to Champions, Bulleen Zebras.

On its path to the Grand Final the Magic survived three sudden death encounters and managed to oust Preston, Oakleigh and Green Gully in thrilling fashion. Altona's luck finally ran out against its Grand Final nemesis, the Bulleen Zebras and lost on penalties.

This year the Magic welcomes Ken Murphy as coach and the former National team star will definitely bring loads of experience to the club. Murphy is no stranger to the VPL and will look towards taking the Magic to its fourth Premiership title.

Bentleigh Greens

The Bentleigh Greens survived a relegation scare last season but managed some crucial wins to ensure their place in the 2005 VPL season.

This year the Greens return under the instruction of Mick Kupinic, who replaced Ian Williamson mid way through the season. Kupinic faces a strong challenge with the quality of opposition at an all time best.

Bentleigh is hoping for a healthy start to the season and has brought in some new faces to strengthen the squad. Among the new recruits is Chilean midfielder, Cesar Leyton along with Nick Veljovic who will definitely add some value on the field.

The Greens produced some spectacular upsets last season against some of the strongest VPL sides, which they will need to repeat if they are to succeed this season.

Bulleen Zebras

The 2004 VPL Champions have lost some players from its starting line-up, but still have the potential to be a dominating force in their search to achieve back-to-back titles.

After leading the title race for most of the season, Bulleen followed through and defeated its Grand Final nemesis, the Altona Magic to win the Championship.

Peter Ollerton remains in charge and in 2005 he has brought in last year's dual Gold Medal winner, Ricky Diaco and Zravko Atanasovski to complement his squad.

While the absences of Ben Harbinson and Robert Santilli will be noticed, the likes of Michael Mazzini and Ross Antoniadis continue to make the Zebras strong enough to repeat last year's winning form.

Essendon Royals

The Essendon Royals enter the 2005 VPL season with strong ambitions to make an impact, after a disheartened result that saw them finish eighth overall.

Despite fielding a strong squad and boasting the league's top goal scorer, the Royals found it difficult to get into a rhythm. However, there are positive signs ahead with the team growing stronger as a unit.

Michael Michalakopoulos steps in as head coach after David Clarkson moves on. The introduction of Michalakopoulos has also brought further changes such as the departure of Steven Pace, Dean Anastasiadis, Vaughn Coveny and Nick Curtis.

These departures have kept the Royals busy and have since signed a number of players including Ben Harbinson among many. Together with their striking machine, Michael Curcija, the Royals have the ability to make the impact they have been waiting for.

Fawkner/Whittlesea Blues

An off-season merger between the Fawkner Blues and the now defunct Whittlesea Stallion has brought to light the Fawkner/Whittlesea Blues.

The new club will alternate home grounds between CB Smith Reserve and Epping Soccer Stadium and will boast a strengthened line-up under the guidance of John Markovski.

After a slow start to the 2004 season, Fawkner found itself wallowing at the bottom end of the table resulting in a change of coaches, which ultimately saw the appointment of John Markovski.

A strong surge late in the season secured Fawkner's survival and set up a promising year in 2005 for the Blues. Despite losing Young Socceroo captain, Vince Lia and Michael Ferrante to Melbourne Victory, the Blues have inherited the services of other VPL stars.

Sasa Ogdenovski and John Angelovski make the move from Preston, while Zoran Petrevski, Danny Materovski and Robert Simeoni carry over their Whittlesea services to complement the Fawkner/Whittlesea line-up.

Frankston Pines

Since Frankston's promotion into the VPL in 2003, the Pines have been a constant threat in the league and this year, Coach Stan Webster hopes to maintain that trend.

Frankston missed out on a finals berth last year much to the dissatisfaction of Pines fans who saw their team in the top half of the table for most of the season.

This year, 2003 Coach of Year, Stan Webster returns to lead the Pines but finds his task a lot harder after the departure of several players. Pines custodian, Stuart Webster leaves to join the Cannons, while Ricky Diaco joins the Bulleen Zebras.

In return the Pines bring in VIS youngster, Semir Sivic and Anthony Edgar from Knox City. While the Pines chances of making their presence felt in 2005 appear questionable, they should not be underestimated.

Green Gully Cavaliers

A constant force in the VPL, Green Gully enters the 2005 with intentions of adding another championship to its name.

The Cavaliers enjoyed mixed fortunes last year. After taking out the title of minor premiers they were knocked out by the Magic in the Preliminary Final in heartbreaking fashion, thanks to a late Doug Mladenovic goal.

In 2005 Ian Dobson returns to Green Gully to try and lead the Cavaliers to another Championship. Along with the replacement of Joe Mullen the Cavaliers have also had to make further structural changes due to the retirement of veteran keeper, Darren MacGrath and the departure of Anthony Magnacca.

However, the ranks have been filled with a number of new signings including Pasi Schwalger from Preston and Lubo Lapsansky. Along with the usual stars, Gully is set for another promising year.

Heidelberg United

After an infallible year in State League One, the Bergers find themselves in the VPL ready to take on some old rivals.

The former National League side enjoyed a good year in 2004, finishing the season at the top of the table, two points clear of Sunshine.

Phil Stubbins returns to club along with the help of various new signings that are bound to secure the Bergers' survival in the VPL.

The strengthened Heidelberg outfit will include for NSL star Con Boutsianis, Nick Cuculevski, young gun, Izzi Erdogan and Steve Pantilidis. Together with an assortment of lethal players, the Bergers are expecting to make their presence felt in 2005.

Melbourne Knights

The proud Melbourne club makes its return to the Premier League after an illustrious career in the NSL.

Following the demise of the NSL, the Knights lost majority of its squad and since rejoining the VPL has been busy recruiting a new line-up.

New coach, Zlatko Vego, who boasts a respected playing career for Croatian first division side, Dynamo Zagreb, has led the rebuilding process.

In order to aid in the re-assimilation, the Knights have acquired the services of VPL veteran and two-time Gold Medal winner, Chris Emsovski, 2004 Goalkeeper of the year Adrian Cagalj and St Albans backline duo Tommy Milardovic and Nevan Antic among many.

The Knights are ensuring a lengthy stay in the VPL and will be hoping to live up to its respected reputation.

Coach: Zlatko Vego

Oakleigh Cannons

Oakleigh surprised many in 2005 with its stranglehold on the league and ability to thrash the strongest of opponents.

After an excellent year, the Cannons were disappointedly knocked out of the Finals Series by its more experienced counterparts, the Bulleen Zebras and Altona Magic.

In its second year since promotion, Oakleigh is looking to establish its place in the VPL and will look towards Michael Chatzitrifonas to lead the charge.

Chatzitrifonas' squad will not have Adrian Cagalj's acrobatics to rely on since his move to the Knights. However in his absence will be former VPL Goalkeeper of the year, Stuart Webster, who is also joined by former NSL midfielder George Goutzioulis. The Cannons will also have the talents of three Fijian internationals, which will definitely add some fire to the frontline.

Preston Lions

In 2004 Preston made its usual Finals Series appearance after yet another strong performance, which took the Lions to Elimination Finals.

With a strong solid squad at its disposal, Preston has been one of the most consistent teams in the VPL. However that notion will be challenged in 2005, after a series of changes to the Preston lineup.

Preston's trusty Captain, Chris Emsovski will not be there to dictate play from the mid-field after his move to the Knights. Also missing will be striker Naum Sekulovski, who joins A-League side Perth Glory. John Angelovski and Sasa Ognenovski also make the move away from BT Connor Reserve, but Coach Zoran Trajceviski has brought in some new faces.

Anthony Magnacca and youngster Serkan Okzus will strengthen the frontline, while Stephen Pace will take a role in the midfield. Preston has been busy creating that solid trait it is known for and hopes to continue its strong position in the league.

South Melbourne

South Melbourne makes its Premier League debut after a distinguished career as one of the biggest clubs in the NSL.

Much like the Knights, South has had to start from scratch and build a team strong enough to compete in Victoria's top flight competition.

John Anastasiadis takes on the coaching role and has been busy recruiting a squad capable of getting results. Among the new faces at Bob Jane Stadium are former NSL star, Kosta Salapasidis, Dean Anastasiadis and Billy Natsioulas.

South Melbourne has a big reputation to uphold and will do everything it can to maintain its winning ways. South has a fortune of young talents coming through the ranks, so the future looks bright for the blue and white.

St Albans Saints

The St Albans Saints enjoyed a consistent first half of the season in 2004, but were unable to maintain its form and finished the season in seventh place, missing out on a Finals place.

Following the end of the 2004 season, the Saints underwent a series of changes that has affected the entire make-up of the team.

Vlado Vanis has been replaced by Srecko Baresic, who hopes to rebuild the Saints into a championship winning side, despite the departure of some key players.

The off-season saw the departure of defenders Tommi Razov and Tommy Milardovic. Nevan Antic also leaves the club, while Paul Urlovic's presence will also be missed.

Coming to alleviate some gaps at the front will be Ivan Razov and Vinko Buljubasic will strengthen the defence. The Saints will need to find and keep their taste for victories as 2005 will be a huge test.

Sunshine Georgies

Chris Taylor carefully groomed his side to and achieved promotion into the VPL in style. The Georgies travelled the whole 2004 State League One season side by side with Heidelberg and always looked certain to join the VPL.

The former NSL club hopes to make a return to glory days where winning was synonymous with the Georgies.

Chris Taylor's confidence in his squad continues to show as he has kept the bulk of last year's squad. However, some new faces have been brought in to complement the team and provide some Premier League experience.

Marino Gasparis makes the move from Bulleen and is accompanied by Steven Camilleri from Frankston. The Georgies exceeded expectation by gaining promotion so they should definitely not be underestimated.
